

Preparing for retirement with WorkDone.Works – this is how it works!

As a service provider and facilitator for measures to prepare for retirement, WorkDone.Works offers digital and presence solutions for companies and their employees in order to create personal, economic, and social added value.

And this is how it works: Employees actively decide to take part in one of the retirement preparation measures or receive it as a surprise gift from their company as a token of appreciation. Booking and administration takes place via the WorkDone.Works company portal.

Online course

WorkDone.Works' online course offers a flexible and easy-to-use way to prepare for retirement. The course covers all essential topics and enables employees to deal with retirement preparation at their own pace.

Face-to-face seminar

WorkDone.Works organizes tailor-made face-to-face seminars that take place on site and enable an intensive, personal discussion of the topics of retirement preparation. The seminars offer practical preparation for the various aspects of retirement.

Individual advice

We offer individual advice for employees who would like even more individual support. These confidential discussions discuss specific retirement preparation needs and goals and provide tailored recommendations for a successful transition into retirement.
